Remote Sensing

Easing the Learning Curve with a New Cheat Sheet for Remote Sensing of the Hydrological Cycle

Gigi Pavur (US Army Corps of Engineers), Deep Shah (Texas A&M Univ.), Laura Almendra (Univ. of Florida), Leah Kocian (Texas A&M Univ.), Debasish Mishra (Texas A&M Univ.), Vinit Sehgal (Louisiana State Univ.), Huilin Gao (Texas A&M Univ.), Kristen Whitney (NASA GSFC; Univ. of Maryland), Hatim Geli (New Mexico State Univ.), Andrew Feldman (NASA GSFC; Univ. of Maryland)

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 03

Remote Sensing Products for Hydrology

Sample cheat sheet. View the full Live Cheat Sheet HERE. Suggest a cheat HERE.

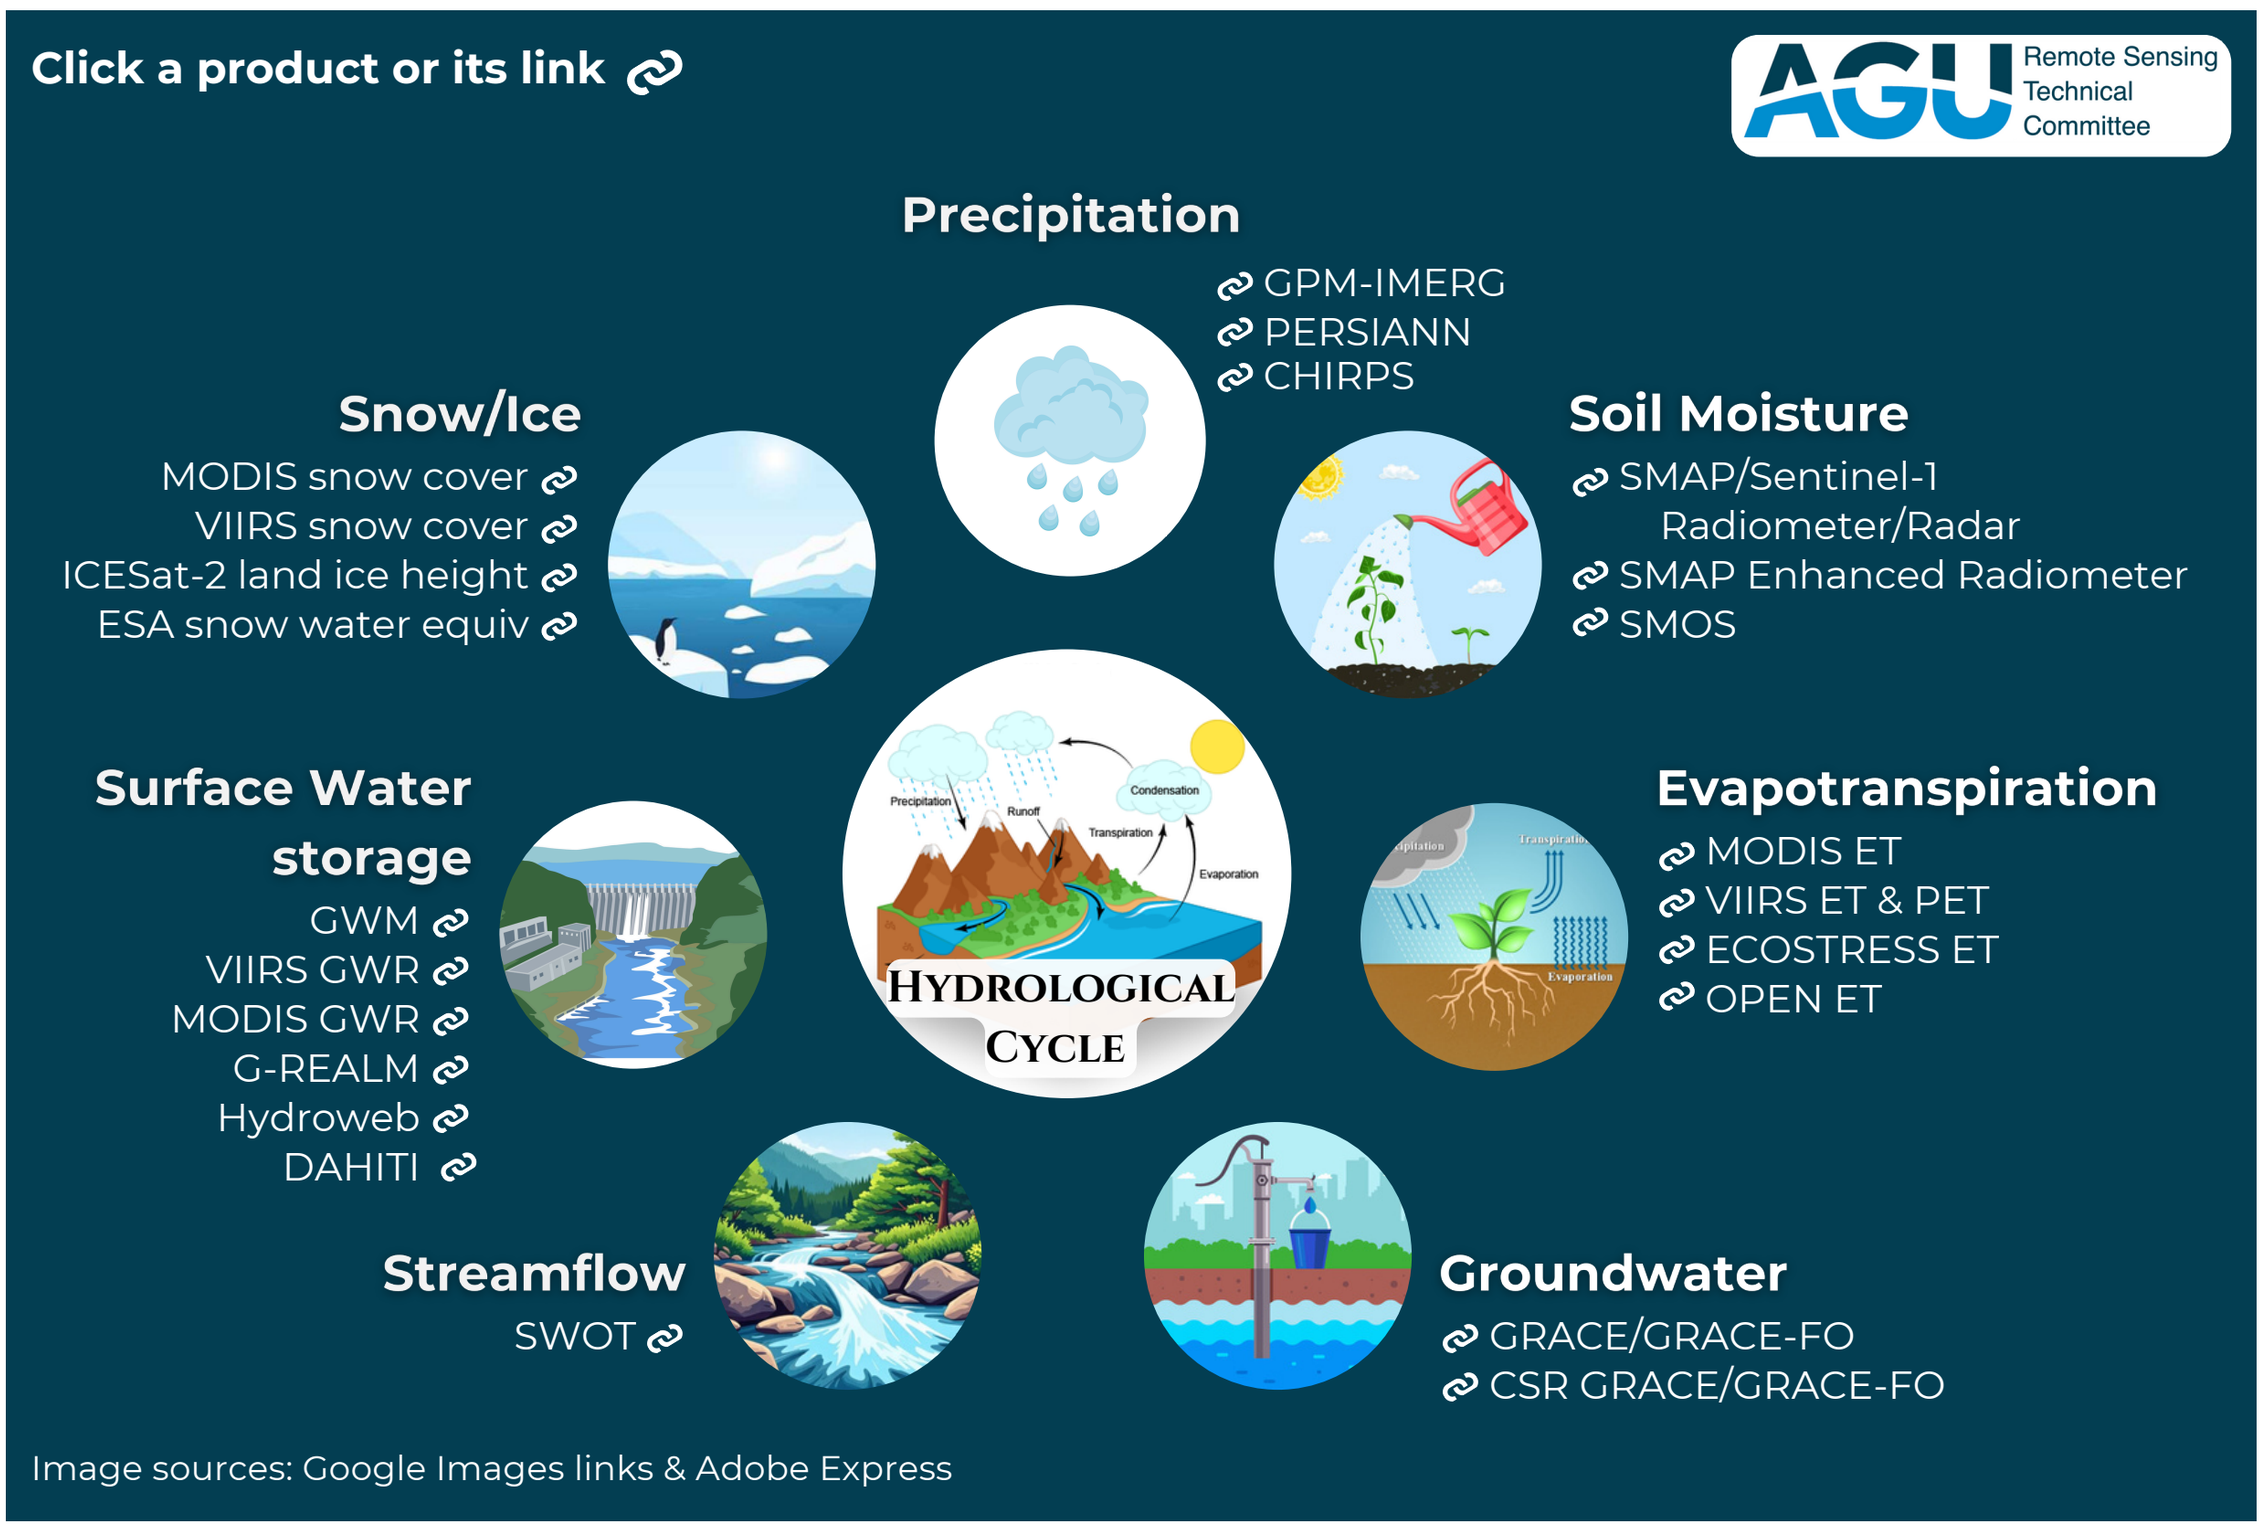

Image sources: Google Images links & Adobe Express

Disclaimer

We do not endorse, promote, or market any specific products from any agency or individual. We strive to include a wide range of datasets, but acknowledge that it may not cover every available product. We encourage users to contribute to the Living Cheat Sheet by submitting additional relevant datasets through the Cheat Suggestion Form. The Living Cheat Sheet will be updated every two months based on responses received through the Cheat Suggestion Form.

AGU Remote Sensing Technical Committee

Visit our website HERE. Join our LinkedIn group HERE.